MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN

“Nursing is a respectable profession”

Over the past 25 years, I’ve heard this phrase frequently and witnessed a growing shift in how nursing is viewed in Pakistan. More people are beginning to understand and appreciate the dignity, strength, and sacrifice that define this noble field. It is a good feeling that this noble profession is getting its place in our society. Still, we often hear voices saying, “Nurses don’t receive the respect they deserve.” This is partially true.

But it’s important to remember that respect is earned—through knowledge, professionalism, empathy, and most of all, confidence. And confidence comes from preparation, from learning deeply, and from doing things well.

At Shah Rukn-e-Alam College of Nursing, that is exactly what we are committed to—building up our students with the education, practical experience, and moral strength they need to succeed. We are not only teaching them how to care for the sick; we are shaping them into leaders who carry themselves with purpose, resilience, and dignity.

Choosing nursing is not an ordinary decision—it’s a powerful commitment to compassion, courage, and lifelong learning. And choosing Shah Rukn-e-Alam College of Nursing means you are placing your trust in an institution that is deeply invested in your success.

Welcome to a place where your dreams, your dedication, and your compassion will shape the future of healthcare.
